As the summer ended the class of 2011 was very excited to finally begin their senior year. From the first day of class, the halls at school were flooded with a sea of red and black senior women and men shirts (a beloved tradition at WHS). Although the smallest population by grade, the Seniors made sure to create a strong presence in the school through their spirit and enthusiasm. The added responsibility, freedom, and events of Senior year marked the beginning of a very momentous passage for the class. M. Shields remarked, " I am so excited for all the activities of senior fall. From senior women shirts, to the Night Game, to the Halloween parade, and the Pep Rally, there is just so much to look forward to!"

The various sponsored functions of the year can be attributed to the hard work of the newly organized Senior Activities Committee. The class of 2011 participated in these opportunities with spirit and character, representing the Raiders with great pride. The Senior Activities Committee routinely met throughout the year to craft an exciting and unique Senior itinerary. They hosted a pajama day to lighten the stress of college applications, as well as bake sales and a Halloween dance. Their thoughtful planning and coordination coupled with enthusiastic class participation helped the class of 2011 remain mindful during stressful moments. The class was able to have some fun, knowing that the rewards of Senior spring were only a few months away!

There's no doubt that sophomore year is different than freshman year. When asked about the change, fellow class member Matt Lawrence agreed that 10th grade is a huge improvement over 9th. "My favorite thing about sophomore year is that family movie nights have turned from Tarzan to Superbad." Classmate and friend Issac Blake added, "My favorite part about sophomore year is the great camaraderie I feel with all my classmates because of the superior leadership that Class President Brian McMahon brings to the table."

Sophomore year may present its fair share of challenges but socially it is seemingly more fun. Abby Slaboden, Nina Craven, and Michael Haidar share their favorite parts.

"The best part of sophomore year is being friends with Tori D'Ortenzio!" says Abby Slaboden. "I agree!" adds Nina Craven.

"I like TV/Video class," mentions Michael Haidar.

Nikki Salzman tells us, "I like sophomore year because everyone knows each other better, and the class has a more unified feeling."

Tucker Morgan, the only sophomore to start in the Thanksgiving Day football game offered, "It was a well fought game but in the end, it did not turn out our way."

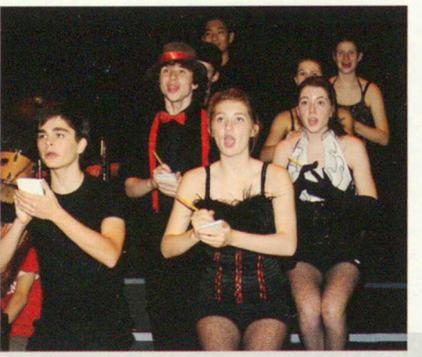

Jeda Goings-Naper helped give the football team the support they needed when playing against their rival. She says, "I love cheerleading and representing Wellesley."

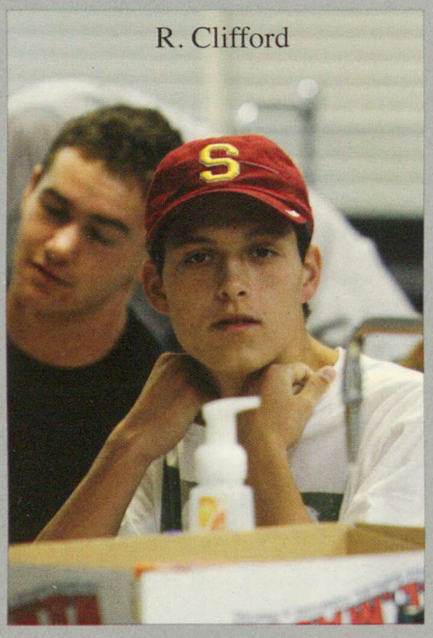

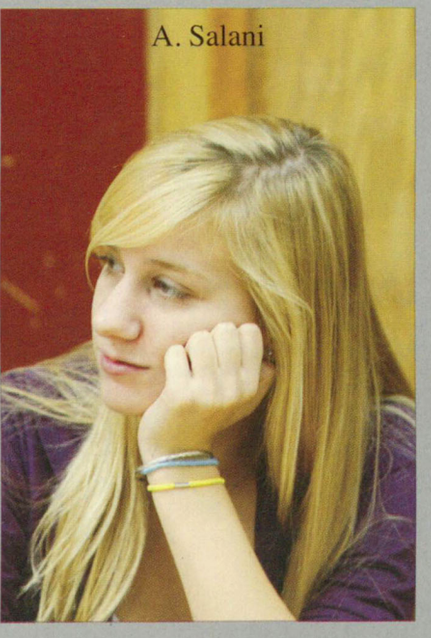

Brendan Milway took on the comical, yet difficult, role of Miss Sunshine in this year's fall production of Chicago.

In Chicago, the performers worked hard to put on a great show while also having fun. Olivia Sanabria and Samantha Derderian say, "It's a great way to meet new people while doing what we love."

2014 2014 Be Excited 2014 2014

Excitement was in the air as the freshmen anxiously anticipated their first day of high school. Freshman year is traditionally a year full of new experiences. From new classes, to new friends and new responsibility, the freshmen had an exciting year ahead of them. Traditionally a huge transition year, freshman year is often difficult to adjust to, but the class of 2014 did so seamlessly, asserting their place in the WHS community. When asked about her favorite part of freshman year, E. Ryan enthusiastically exclaimed, "Having older kids to look up to in school". Although the freshmen kicked off the year with a spirited back to school dance, freshman year is not all fun and games. M. Davis added, "The academics are way more challenging this year". With lots of events and experiences ahead, the freshmen have an exciting year in store.

The second weekend of November, Wellesley Raiders sparkled with razzle dazzle and excitement when the cast of Chicago took the stage. According to senior Cam McCormick, the musical was "all that jazz."

"I'm still shocked I even got into the musical and not only that but I got a role the first time I auditioned for any musical! It was an amazing experience that has truly helped my performing skills and was a high school moment that I will never forget." Dana Reid '11

"Participating in the musical felt like being part of a second family. The laughs we shared, Wro's inspirational guidance, and the camaraderie we shared all added up to one unforgettable experience. Playing a stud didn't hurt anything either." Bryan Zhang '11

Pumped

Thanksgiving Pep Rally

Be Victorious

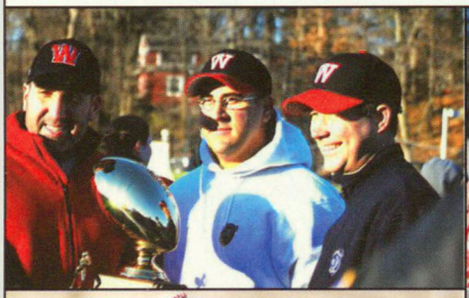

This year's Powderpuff team was indeed the underdog. With a little over one week of practice and 30 girls, the likelihood of winning didn't look very promising for this group. However, the fleeting doubts fueled the desire to win and the senior women were determined to make history, especially after having endured consecutive loses over the past three years.

Despite the blistering cold, the team was pumped up to take on the Needham seniors. The first half was strong for the Raiders, with a very solid defense. The team hardly allowed Needham to gain yardage. As the half came to a close, quarterback Leah Dowd scored a touchdown to give the Raiders the lead. The start of the second half brought ferocious aggression from the Wellesley seniors. As the clock was winding down, tensions became heightened.

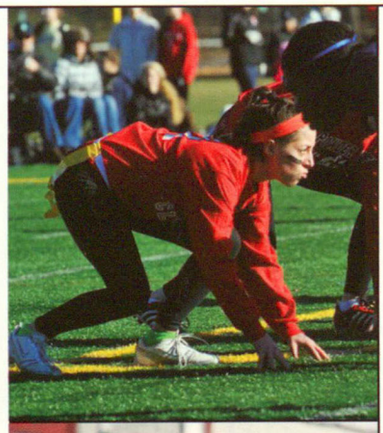

With less than a minute left, Needham scored to tie the game. As the clock ran down to zero, confusion erupted amongst fans and players alike. As the refs gathered to discuss, the Raiders were in an agonizing place. A verdict was announced: to end the game a kick off would ensue. After the first two rounds, the score remained tied. With the third round, Holly Norman stepped up and booted a beautiful 20-yard field goal. The team enveloped Norman in a celebratory hug and then waited with anticipation as a Needham senior approached the field to kick. The ball rose higher and higher but it was clear, the kick had gone far left. It was official, the 2011 Wellesley Powderpuff team were champions.

Be Remembered

The 123rd traditional Thanksgiving Day Game between Wellesley and Needham was played hard, with each school fighting to represent their unyielding pride. Even though the teams were evenly matched, Needham took the win this year. However, Needham still trails in the total rivalry record— Wellesley has 59 wins and Needham only 55. It may seem like just another game but to the die hard fans and players, the Wellesley and Needham rivalry means so much more. To the fans, the game is a chance to watch history in the making as players leave their unique mark amid a long history of well-fought games. For the players, it is all about how they will be remembered as they place their name amongst the incredible athletes that came before them. In a pre-game message of inspiration, senior James Sullivan emphasized the importance of the legacy...

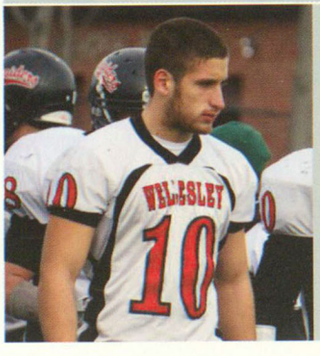

"This is the day we find out how we'll be remembered."

He said, "Men, this is a special day today. Do you want to be remembered as strong? As those who rose to the occasion? How do you want to be remembered, men? Remembered at all?" Clearly the team will be remembered— for the pride they brought to the field, for the strength that kept them playing, and for the steadfast fight they gave until the end.

CAPTAIN DUNCAN JOHNSON

When asked about his team, Duncan Johnson says, "Playing on the football team is more than just about wins and losses; the life long lessons and friendships you make with your teammates are unlike those of any other sport."

CAPTAIN ADAM FARINA

Adam Farina describes the game saying, "It's the biggest day of the year and for some of us the biggest day in our lives. Going through the whole year with this team and having our season culminate on Thanksgiving is something I wouldn't trade for anything."

Be Dedicated

Collective strength is found despite injury

After last year's 9-2 season, the 2010 Raider football team had a lot of work to do. At the start of the season, Captain A. Farina said, "I have no doubt that this year's team will excel. We are a group of highly motivated athletes, and we are not messing around." This statement was put to the test after Farina was injured during the second game of the season. Would victory be assured for the team? Would the Raiders bounce back after such a loss? Well, the team persevered after the quarterback's injury, and soared to 4 consecutive wins. Junior C. Bouley said, "One of our greatest accomplishments this year was defeating Natick, a team who has always brought a difficult challenge. That win gave us both momentum and confidence. We felt unstoppable." Despite the challenges faced by the team, the Raiders have not fell short on leadership or dedication. The seniors stepped up to lead the team, providing a great influence. Their motivation has been an inspiration to all. Senior Captain D. Johnson sums up the Raider motto by saying, "Raider pride means working hard for results. It's football."

Amid a sea of RED and BLACK

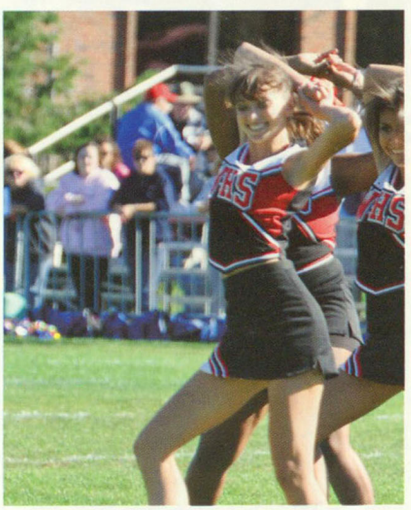

From top to bottom, Captains A. Brede ('12), S. Castellanos ('12), and G. MacGillivray ('12) show their lively spirit while performing their cheers.

The squad entered the season with great confidence as returning members warmly welcomed this year's new additions. Captain Ashley Brede ('12) states, "The size of our squad is something new to work with this year and that alone can make us better. With more girls, we can have more stunts, bigger dance routines, and more fun!"

Even though the Wellesley Cheerleading Squad has always shown great talent, this year's team has exceeded all expectations. One objective the girls were hoping to accomplish this year was improving their tumbling routines. They put in a lot of time and effort to create new cheers each week and these novel moves have been successful in pumping up their fans. Captain Gaby MacGillivray ('12) adds, "My favorite part of being a WHS cheerleader is performing and getting the crowd riled up with enthusiasm!" With the "mixture of people from different backgrounds, ages, and personalities that are cheering with us this year"(A. Brede), the Wellesley cheerleaders are bringing in more pep than ever!

Be Impressive

Team makes it to tournament

The season started out strong with three consecutive wins and another four game winning streak soon followed. When asked "What are you most looking forward to this soccer season?" captains Andrew Suttle, Kevin O'Brien, and Reyn Wagenaar answered with the following thoughts. O'Brien remarked, "I'd say the biggest thing for us this year is to have a better season than last year's. We have a great bunch of kids and we all play really well together." A. Suttle agreed stating, "We have a great group." R. Wagenaar added, "I am looking forward to playing with the team and then getting the wins".

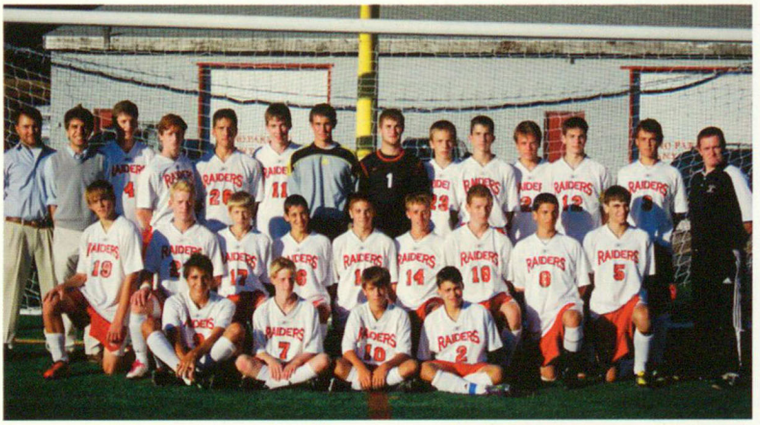

Clearly, 'getting the wins' was exactly what the raider soccer team did this season. Making it all the way to tournament, the team accomplished a record of 11 wins and only 6 losses. "I felt really a part of a larger community watching the tournament game. I too was in tournament for field hockey, so I felt deeply connected to their experience," shared soccer fan L. Fessler. With the early success of such a young team, it seems certain that things will only continue to progress next year!

Committed, united, and skilled. These are the three words that captain Bianca Calderone ('11) used to describe her successful team. She elaborated that being a member of the soccer team means "to be a skilled player, with motivation to help bring the team to success, whether making an impact on the field or off by cheering on everyone else." She effortlessly led her team to victory in their 9-3-5 season. Unfortunately, her co-captain Adrienne Cuddy ('11), suffered from a bad concussion after the first game of the season but this injury would not stop these dedicated Raiders. Cuddy continued to support the team from off the field, and noted that her favorite part of the team is that she gets to "know each player both as a soccer player and personally." Calderone added that "at first, everyone was concerned with Adrienne gone that our defense would be weak, but the defense is strong even without her and proved that they could do it on their own. I'm definitely impressed and proud of the defense this year." These raiders continued to strive throughout the season to beat Natick, their biggest soccer rival, in a 4-3 victory. The team also made tournament this year because of their stellar record. Cuddy added that her goals for the season were to "come together as a team" and "play more like a team and less like individuals." Calderone also had hopes that the team would "make tournament and possess the ball better." At the end of their fall season, these athletic Raiders have definitely achieved these goals.

Twenty years is a long time; and that is how long the Wellesley High School golf team was led by Coach Hamilton. Yet, this year marked new beginnings, as the team adapted to the leadership of a new coach, Mr. Bateman. Captain J. Kaminer ('11) says, "it has been a tough adjustment, but Mr. Bateman is doing a great job learning what he has to do in order to continue our team's success." The team has started to host team dinners, a typical ritual for most other sports teams, but one the golf team had previously not participated in. With these new changes, the team has developed a greater sense of unity, which is evident in their record. The greatest triumph for the team this season was making it to the MIAA State Golf Championship, where they won third place. With the help of Captain P. Sullivan ('11), the golf team also won the All Stars. Captain Ian Ballantyne ('12) says, "this year's team is better than last due to all the new players that made the team. We took on a whole new character, it was a lot of fun." This new image of the golf team will hopefully be sustained as Coach Bateman continues to lead this dynamic, successful and dedicated team.

Despite the loss of eleven players, the team came into the season with confidence, ready to put their best foot forward and live up to the success of last year. This year's field hockey team not only lived up to last year, but also exceeded all expectations. Even though there was a lack of varsity experience on the team, the younger players quickly showed they had a lot of talent to contribute. The new players showed spirit and determination on and off the field and the eight returning players were grateful for their attitudes and abilities. J. Flanigan ('11) knew it was going to be a challenging season, but was excited to welcome the new players onto the team, "Our team is working on getting closer…we have team dinners and breakfasts. We'll definitely start doing a lot more movie nights, team sleep overs, and such". With a record of 9-3-2, the raiders went into tournament with great confidence. They made it through the first three rounds and put up a good fight against the Walpole Porkers who were seeded first, ending their season as a south sectional finalist team. Unfortunately, Saturday, November 10th, Walpole came to win and as the season came to an end A. LaPoint ('13) reflected on her first tournament experience, "…we didn't know how far we would make it, and being a lower seed we knew we had to take it game by game and ended up making it farther than anyone had anticipated. We are all very proud at how far the team has come".

This season the Girls Varsity Volleyball Team started off with a three game winning streak! The season also welcomed several underclassmen along with one team member transfer to the squad.

Led by senior captains M. Kellogg, E. Baker, L. Berndsen, and A. Slaboden, the team went on to become the Herget Champions then preceded to the State Tournament games. At State they beat Acton Boxborough, moving the team forward to the third round in tournament play. The Raiders fell short in a match against (the undefeated) Westford Academy which ended their season. "The team as a whole has a good vibe because we're all friends and comfortable with one another," said M Kellogg ('11). The girls believe their bonding started with a team sleepover that brought the girls closer than they'd ever thought possible. The girls are always together both on and off the court. This constant togetherness can only improve the team's chemistry on the floor. "The Varsity Team is so close! From team sleepovers, team dinners, and millions of inside jokes make coming to practice a pleasure because we can forget about stress and focus on playing and having fun," shared A. Slaboden ('11).

The squad has openly said that they've all learned a lot about themselves and their teammates as athletes and as friends. Although they lost at State, the girls felt they had indeed won the best prize of all, a bond of friendship that will never be forgotten.

"The most important thing to highlight is our team's unity because it's about being a team more than being individuals..."

XC team takes title 2nd year in a row
Sectional Champions - Eastern, MA

This year the boys XC team were left challenged by the loss of valuable members who graduated last year but that did not stop them from winning races. Captain Peter Krieg says, "We have lost some close meets but also won some meets due to the excellence of our top 3-4 runners." Other Senior Captain Andrew Griswold agreed adding, "The boys team is a little shallow this year running wise, but we make up for that in personality and spirit."

Krieg continued to comment about performance by saying, "I think the varsity members of the team are very dedicated to making practices and racing hard in the meets. Everyone is trying to get faster throughout the season and this competitive environment guides the team along."

The girls team faced a different reality however, as they lost all but one runner entering the new year. Overall, they've had a great season. The captains agree that the team's strongest race is the 5K and hilly courses. Commitment and dedication are equally as important to the girls as suggested by Senior Captain Eva Lauer. "People ask us why we don't just sit on a bench and it is because we know that winning races is a direct result of training hard," says Lauer. By running together each day, the team members have developed very close relationships. Captain Jessie Kaliski says, "Everyone is so caring. Cross-country is basically my safe zone."

Season ends with 6-5

Outshining their average record of 6-5, the Wellesley Girls Swim team sent multiple players to States this year. In addition to their talent, the girls of the swim team also possess great character. With service activities such as participating in the Swim For Life, a race in Provincetown to raise money for breast cancer and AIDS research to the community-building traditions such as giving "joke gifts," bathing suit spirit, and T-shirt tie-dying, the team is a very close-knit crew. As captains Catherine King and Tiffany Chow mentioned, the swim team does a great job of creating a welcoming atmosphere in being "really supportive of one another in and out of the pool." This embracing support was apparent when the team welcomed freshman Kendra Ganley to the team and stood by her as she swam to break the 1977 Wellesley High School record for the 100-meter breaststroke. "With all her dedication, I believe she deserves to have the record," said Tiffany. The entire team deserves recognition for their skill, sportsmanship, and the "experience and responsibilities" they provide.

Due to an unprecedented amount of snow days, seniors enjoyed the comfort of multiple days off without having to worry about making up the days later in June. Throughout the winter, seniors experienced occasional impromptu snowball fights during lunch hours, and jumped at the chance to sip warm hot chocolate after the long and chilly days. Seniors showed their spirit at many sporting events, cheering on their fellow raiders with enthusiasm and passion. Although second semester started a couple days later than expected, seniors welcomed their final semester as Wellesley Raiders with open arms.

Winter in Wellesley means a few simple things for Raiders: going crazy at sporting events, showing endless pride, and letting spirit flow. Although this winter was a continuous blanket of white, the Raider colors at Wellesley High maintained their vibrancy even on the dreariest of winter days. Raiders could be observed sporting red and black at both school and sporting events and the most dedicated fans shed their winter jackets in favor of a more school-spirited wardrobe.

This winter also sparked a new era of Wellesley spirit. A few dedicated fans started what junior Johan Manse calls a "revolution." Wellesley fans transformed into a fleet of newly named, "Raider Crazies." Manse goes on to say, "I think this will change the face of Raider fans for many years to come and I am proud to be a part of it." Thanks to the dedication and commitment from the Raider Crazies, it is no surprise that athletic games are more crowded than ever. This has been one 'crazy' success that benefits every team!

Be Enlightened

March 3rd brought about the much awaited Seminar Day. During the grueling month of March, this day is packed with interesting and unique seminars for students to attend allowing them to experience different hobbies, curiosities and interests. Junior Jacob Mingolla exclaimed, "having seminar day is an eye-opening experience." David Shektman ('13) says, "Seminar day was very informational."

Speakers from various occupations came from near and far to offer their expertise about a wide spectrum of topics, which ranged from "Dating Do's and Dont's, to guest speakers such as Massachusetts Rep. Alice Peisch. This special day helps students explore new hobbies, ask interesting questions and learn about things they may not encounter during a typical school day. "The seminars with food were the best," said Sahar Nakhaee ('14). Food seminars included cupcake decorating activities and Anna's Taqueria this year. The Food seminars were a huge hit with hungry Wellesley High students.

Seminar Day has been a tradition at Wellesley High for many years and has proved once again to be very much appreciated by the WHS community.

- "My favorite piece of the winter concert was Prelude and Fugue, by Bach. I liked the contrast between the two sections, the light and refined prelude and the energetic fugue. Also, the song presented a challenge, which is always fun. This is a song where everyone has something to work on and something to improve."
  - Bobby McManus ('12)

This year the band and the orchestra practiced harder than ever to perfect several pieces to perform at the winter concert. Both groups possess some very talented musicians, many who have been playing their instrument since middle school or before. The context of membership to a performing group is very welcoming as described by Bobby McManus ('12), "My favorite part of being in the band is the atmosphere. Mr. Scott is a fun, energetic teacher and keeps our rehearsals from being dull and monotonous, like a lesser band rehearsal could be." Erica Chen ('11) described the orchestra as fun as well, "We all have inside jokes with each other, we work hard in rehearsal but we like to make light of ourselves too." Both groups work very hard throughout the year to deliver exciting performances such as the winter concert. Each member contributes their talent every day and each practice and performance is very rewarding. Michael Youniss ('13) says his favorite part of band is "making music that sounds good with my fellow classmates." In the end, it's all about group harmony.

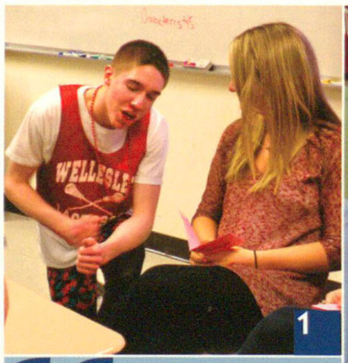

Decked out in pink, D. Kopin sings his heart out while making the hearts of under class girls race wild.

What's your favorite part of Singing Valentines?

- "I had a lot of fun being a part of Singing Valentines and I hope it continues in the future!" says Mae Capozzi ('11), one of the ladies delivering the musical messages.
- Clearly touched, Ryan O'Rourke ('13) says, "Mine made me cry."
- "They were really entertaining to watch, and the singing was great. They weren't really as entertaining for those who got them though!" says James Wall ('13).
- Like many students, Abby Slaboden ('13) says, "Singing Valentine's are really fun to send to my friends and embarrass them!"

> Even though we got to miss a whole day of school, dress up in crazy outfits, and interrupt many classes, my favorite part by far was singing to the lovely ladies of Wellesley High School.

Be Serenaded

Love and excitement fill the air at Wellesley High School as Valentine's Day approaches. The week prior to the big day, the inspired cheers of "Buy your singing valentine!" could be heard throughout the cafeteria and mez adding to the exuberant atmosphere. Students buy valentines for their friends, teachers, or that special someone. No matter who the valentine sender is, many students love being serenaded by WHS's talented singers. From romantic ballads to current pop songs or even beat boxing, they can sing just about anything!

Singing Valentines have been a favorite event for WHS students for many years. During the cold month of February, they bring a bit of lighthearted fun. Senior J. Flanigan says, "I love giving singing valentines to my friends! This year I sent one to my friend during lunch where the whole cafeteria got to watch! It was great, she turned so red". Sending a Singing Valentine during the lunch hour has become very popular. "It gives the entire cafeteria an opportunity to watch the singing, and join in on the fun," Flanigan continued to say. Junior Jacob Mingolla says, "It takes a normal day and turns it into something much more exciting!" With such talented singers at hand sporting their creative costumes, it is little wonder that Valentine's Day is one that many Wellesley High students look forward to.

The Senior Activities Committee's bake sale, filled with yummy treats, helped make this day even more festive.

STRONG PUSH AT THE END OF THE SEASON CAPTURES HERGET TITLE

Dedicated, hardworking, motivated. These are the three words senior Captain Andrew Docktor used to describe his team. With the many successes enjoyed this year, it seems these words reflect well the overall chemistry achieved by these players. Docktor said, "I am really proud of what our team has been able to accomplish this year. We have grown extremely close and I think of every player as a brother." This year's team had the added advantage of trust because they been a part of this group for many years. Owen Dugan ('11) said, "We are all closer with each other because we've grown up playing together."

Whether it is getting the team together to play pond hockey, uniting at a team dinner for a little food and fun, or attending and cheering on the players of other Wellesley athletic sports, the players can't seem to get enough of each other. These strong bonds have led to their many successes including the Herget division champions. Senior Connor Hawkinson commented, "This group of seniors has worked really hard over the past four years to capture three Herget titles." With this title under their belts, the Raiders went into the tournament with high hopes. An overtime win in the first game against Milton left fans and players excited for more. However, in the second round the Raiders faced off against Duxbury, and a 3-3 tie brought the game into overtime. The Raiders' season ended in an intense shoot-out but with all their success they have a lot to be proud of.

BE VICTORIOUS

A WINNING SEASON BOTH ON AND OFF THE ICE

Drawing upon their strong skills and fierce competitive drive, the Wellesley Girls' Hockey team was victorious this year with a record of 13-6-1. Even greater than making it to tournament was the journey that brought them there. The team agrees that the highlight of their season was beating the undefeated Norwood Mustangs, tying them for first place in the Bay State Herget Division and securing their place in tournament. Although the 2-0 Norwood game may seem like just another great win, it was so much more to the girls on the team. When asked about the game, Erin Morton ('13) said, "I think that making it into tournament was a great accomplishment after going through a rough patch in our season."

The game not only benefited their record but furthered their bond as a team as well. Emily Hunter ('13) shared, "we came together as a team and proved ourselves as strong competitors." Without this team's cohesiveness, winning may not have been possible.

"Hockey is just a different team environment because we spend so much time together," reflects Molly McNamara ('12).

M. McNamara ('12) contributed a goal and an assist to help lead the Raiders to their big win against undefeated Norwood.

The girls described their team as a family and said it feels great to be a part of that. As senior captains Charlotte Borgatti, Abby Bunting, Maggie Dore, and Rylee Norton played their last season for Wellesley, they wistfully shared a hope to remain connected to this team, wherever they are, for years to come.

RAIDERS WIN HERGET TITLE FOR FIRST TIME IN TEN YEARS

The Boys Basketball season was very successful. Working hard, they were able to make it to the state championship. Making it to states was very important for the team, especially for the seniors who will not be returning. Captain Adam Farina says "It is our last season together and for many of us our last season of sports ever, so it makes it that much more important." The seniors were very excited for this season and worked extra hard to get ready for it, "The hard work that was put in during the offseason has made this season that much more special." Captain Duncan Johnson says of the team. Not only did the team work hard for many victories this season, but they also won the Herget title for the first time in ten years. The team easily bonded as they worked together to face tough opponents. Whether the games were home or away the boys attracted many fans to support them at each game. Not only were the fans motivating, but so were the coaches. "We have continued to improve under Coach Magpiong, Coach Cluff, and Coach Hatch, who constantly keep us focused" Says A. Farina. The coaches pushed the team hard this year and the hard work paid off in many victories. The boys were willing to work hard and are ready to continue that next year.

THE TEAM EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS ONCE AGAIN

The Wellesley Raiders began their new season as expected. The Varsity girls beat Bishop Feehan with a sweep. With a clear message of high expectations from the fans, the girls maintained even higher expectations for themselves. With returning Varsity and JV players, alongside transfer student Tierra Allen, the girls rocked the court and went undefeated in the regular season.

They finished out the year as Bay State Champions, entering the playoffs as the fourth seed, gaining the home court advantage for two games. In the second of the two games, the Raiders lost to Braintree.

Led by captains B. Dietrick S. Witheford and A. Slaboden, players C. Harrington ('12), T. Allen ('11) and G. Miller ('13) blasted into tournament showing that actions speak louder than words, and with a victorv against Dedham, the girls hoped their winni. g streak would continue. Although the gym was packed with 'Raider Crazy' students, parents and other fans, the girls unfortunately lost to Braintree by one point.

An additional notable event this season was Captain B. Dietrick's ('11) milestone of scoring over 1400 points during her basketball career. She is the only person in Wellesley high history to ever achieve this goal.

A YEAR FOR REBUILDING TEAM STRENGTH

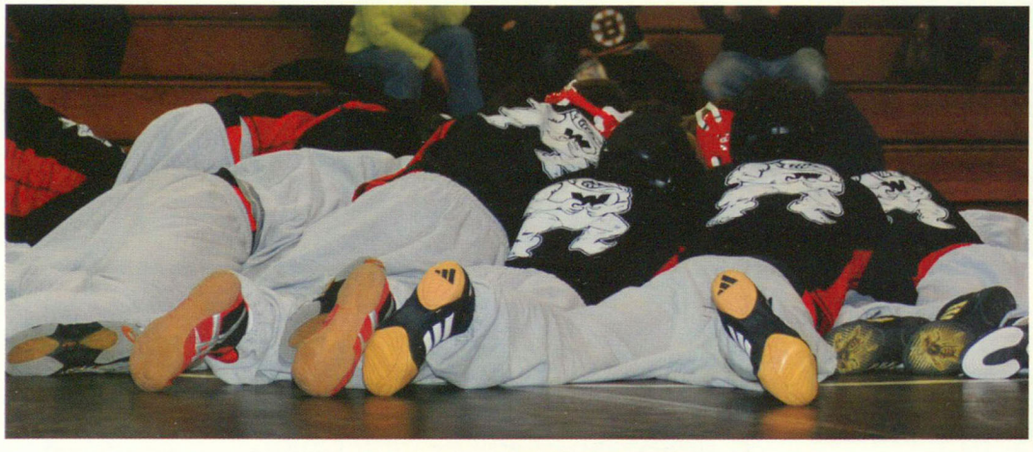

Even before the season started, wrestlers could be found running up and down the stairs of WHS preparing for the upcoming season. Wrestling requires great endurance. In order to contribute, each player must train intensively to get themselves ready. Junior captain Callen Reverett summed up the growth of the team when he shared, "Our team is a very young team but due to the leadership we had, especially from Dillon, the underclassmen really stepped up in helping the team. This year was a year of incredible improvement and even though we didn't have the best record, we are starting to put Wellesley back on the map for wrestling."

Being composed primarily of underclassmen, the team had much room for growth. At the beginning of the season there was a major gap that needed to be filled after losing several senior team members last year. As Callen acknowledged, the underclassmen were ready for the challenge and took advantage of this year to rebuild the wrestling program at Wellesley High. Senior captain Dillon Prives praised the juniors on the team who made large contributions to this season, "Callen, Dan Wilkins and Jacob Mingolla, all played a large role in leading the younger team members. The freshmen and sophomores have been doing great and I am excited to hear how they are doing next year." Without many seniors on the team, the juniors took it upon themselves to step up and show their leadership skills by acknowledging the essential role of each player on the team.

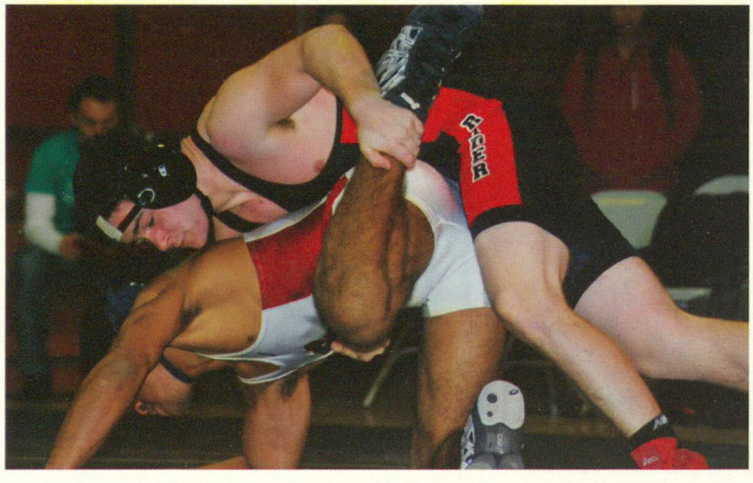

"We are really looking forward to next year as we are going to have the majority of the team returning." - C. Reverett ('12)

DANCING TO VICTORY

The dance team had an incredible season this year. Every Friday night basketball game, the 17 girls could be found lighting up the gym floor with their routines during half time. The team successfully completed four different and intricate routines. Senior captain Ali Harkavy reflected that, "It's really great to see my teammates grow throughout the season not only as better technical dancers but grow together as a team. It's nice that my teammates look to me for guidance, whether it is about dance or something completely different. I value being able to create an environment where my teammates all feel comfortable with each other, and where they are able to form incredible friendships."

All of their practice throughout their 14 week season led up to a 4th place finish at the Bay State Competition. The team then advanced to the States Competition. Sophomore captain Laine Wirth said her favorite part of the season was the States competition. "It's our final performance as a team and the last time we are all together for the season. I love competitions, and States is my favorite because we get to showcase all of the work we have put in for the whole season. Everyone really puts all they've got into it." The team placed 4th at States and then qualified to move on to Regionals.

STEPPING WITH SPIRIT AND SKILLS

Total Team Unity. Members of the Step Team channel creativity and their abilities as they are preparing for their performances. "The Step Squad inspires unity. I love it because it allows me to be creative in a team environment without the stress of athletic ability," says Jackie Wiley ('12). Senior Yassyra Diaz ('11), also the captain of the Step Team says, "I definitely enjoy working with the Step Team but when it is time to get focused, we do an amazing job. The synchronicity plays a crucial part when it comes to the rhythm and character of members in the Step Team."

This year, the gymnastic teams has reached all new heights. As undefeated (9-0) Bay State Champs for the second year in a row, the team went into sectionals as the number four seed. Coming in second place, below Algonquin, the team moved on as the third seed, running for the state title. After placing second in the state competition, and beating the number one seed Acton-Boxborough, the team qualified for the New England meet. At New England, the team ranked 5th. These are all tremendous accomplishments that the team is very proud of. Captains Megan Lapp ('11), Jess Gates ('12), and Hayden Fowler ('12), have each stepped up this season and shown tremendous leadership to this fairly young team. Megan Lapp reminisced about her time as captain, "My favorite part about being a captain is helping other people with what they're working on. Seeing people learn new skills or perfect old ones is so rewarding, and it really does happen to everyone, whether they are just starting gymnastics, or whether they work out 25 hours a week at their club gym."

BOYS SWIM TEAM BREAKS THREE YEAR LOSING STREAK

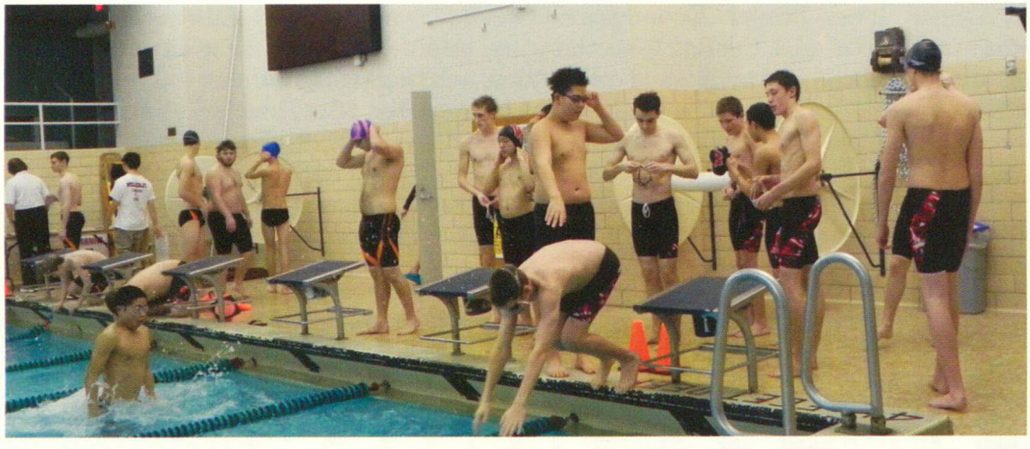

The Wellesley High School swimmers spent long hours in the pool practicing their strokes. Obviously their hard work paid off because this season the boys swim team broke their three year losing streak!

The incoming freshmen brought in some very high level skills, which was beneficial for Wellesley. Robert Young ('12) speaks highly of the freshman saying, "They really changed the team dynamic and brought us together as a whole." The new members led this year's team to many wins. Young also shared that this season the team grew very close.

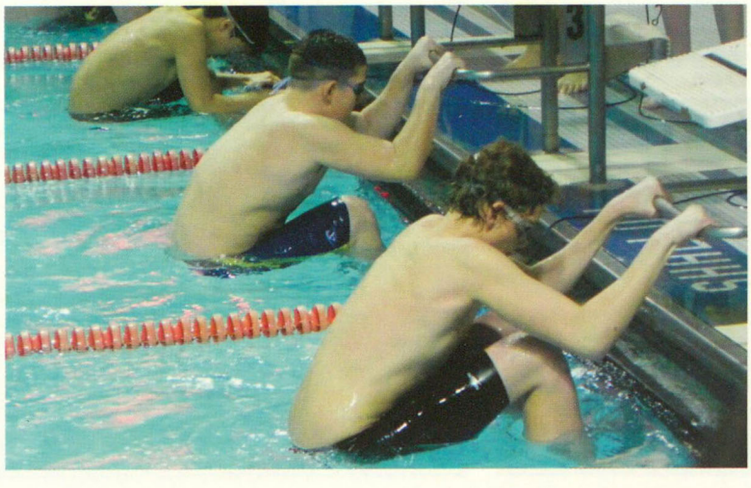

"This year I felt we were united regardless of grade or ability and I think that was reflected in our swimming," said Young.

The environment in which a team practices is very important and certainly reflects how closely unified team membership correlates to a team's level of performance. Clearly, the team grew close. Their continued support fostered the team's ability to swim harder and attain additional victories. An amazing year was had by the boys swim team.

TEAMS MAKE GREAT RUNS IN THE STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

As the temperatures dropped, winter sports teams headed indoors to the gym, indoor track, or wrestling room for conditioning; except the Wellesley High School ski team. This group braves the bitter cold and massive New England snowstorms in order to train and compete to win. For the first couple weeks of the season, the total snow cover can be variable so the ski team gets in shape at the track, building both muscle and endurance that they will need throughout the season. The ski team is divided into two different teams called Alpine and Nordic. The Alpine squad consists of the down hill skiers that attend races at Blue Hills and Ski Ward Mountain. The Nordic skiers include the team members who cross-country ski at the Leo J. Martin golf course.

Going into the season the returning skiers were a bit anxious about their performance feeling pressured by their past success, including winning states two years in a row. Captain Chris McKenna ('12) says, "This year there was definitely a large gap from the seniors that were lost last year. There are a lot of new skiers this year though who show a lot of potential though." Captain Eric Lowe ('12) also commented upon the young team saying, "It was really great to have a strong group of freshman and sophomores who were able to accumulate points in both events. Every underclassman contributed big to the team and they all had competitive and positive attitudes."

-A. Lehner ('11)

"We had a ton of fun and success this year. I owe it all to a great group dynamic"

-A. O'Donnell ('11)

BE SPEEDY

The indoor track team has found particular success in their four person relay team this season, which includes Catherine King ('11), Carly Daniel ('12), Karla Ganley ('12), and Tessa Broholm ('13). When asking Captain Catherine King about their relay team she said, "We've been running as a relay team for almost a year and its been great being able to stick together through the seasons. We've all improved our times, so our overall relay time has drastically changed which we are really proud of." This relay team brought about a renewed feeling of success to the whole track team during States, All-States, and the New England meet. The team has grown closer with every race, which has resulted in their continued success.

In addition to the exceptional performance by the relay team, the track team has also exceeded expectations for both the boys and girls events. Their hard work all season was evident throughout the girls' undefeated season. The boys faced some challenging teams but were able to pull through on multiple occasions.

This year the YBK staff has been working diligently to get a better understanding of their WHS community to produce a book that best represents the high school population. The editorial staff decided to utilize market research techniques, including focus groups, surveys, and interviews, to inform the decision making process involved during the design and production of the publication. However, all work and no play makes for an unhappy staff, so the group has also been incorporating a few motivational activities as well, such as identity sharing using visual representations and YBK staff superlatives which were awarded in class to different staff members to celebrate their various exceptional skills and contributions! The staff is very excited and proud of the work they have accomplished this year.

Mr Johnson's Photo Club was started as a way for passionate photography students to take pictures, process film, and develop pictures outside of class. Since then it has expanded to include new students interested in learning photography and some who enjoy photography but could not find time in their schedules for a class. Photo club also offers outlets for adventurous students with upcoming trips outside the US. In previous years students have gone to Greece and Italy with Photo Club.

"The Green Team was started because we wanted to raise awareness of the importance of being environmentally friendly in our school."

"I like being on green team and varsity recycling because they are, on the surface, not the most popular clubs but actually get a lot done. In Varsity Recycling, we collect and dispose of the entire school's recycling (dual stream) every week. Without us, WHS would waste a lot. Green Team is also great because it provides a way for people like me who reduce, re-use, and recycle at home to get even more involved."

P. Hickey ('12)

Be Green

Green Team and Varsity Recycling worked hard this year to make our school more eco-friendly

Run by science teacher Ms. Green, the Green Team and Varsity Recycling mission is to create a more environmentally friendly high school. They accomplish this goal by trying to encourage students and faculty to stay green by using less energy (for example, turning off the lights while classes are at lunch) and create a environmentally conscious community who tries to reduce, reuse and recycle. Each week on Tuesday, Varsity Recycling travels around the school to collect every classroom's recyclables, and on Wednesday members of Green Team meet to discuss plans to make the school more eco-friendly. Thanks to these two clubs, Wellesley High is becoming a greener school every day!

Key Club is a great way to get involved in the Wellesley Community as well as the Boston area. Sponsored by Kiwanis International, Key Club is a student-led organization allowing Wellesley High School students to volunteer around the area. Every April, approximately 80 students are admitted into Key Club following at least 30 hours of community service. High schoolers volunteer at various places including the Wellesley and Boston Food Banks, Cradles to Crayons, Walk for Haiti, Diabetes Walk, and during the holiday season members ring Christmas bells for the Salvation Army at Roche Bros. The Key Club is led by president Lily Harrington ('11), vice president Caeleigh White ('12), secretary Paige Bashian ('11), historians Brooke Nash ('12) and Emily Hutchinson ('12), editor Emily Weinstein ('12), treasurer Libby Alvin ('12), publicist Ashley Slaboden ('11), and Advisor Mr. Fantini. The Key Club is the go-to club for all things community service, and it has been giving Wellesley students the opportunity to give back to their school and community for years.

Be Generous

Wellesley High Key Club works to integrate our student body into the larger community

"Key Club helps us to be aware of the community we live in."

Be Unified

Student Unification Program holds events to bring all the classes together to show their school spirit

Members of the newly created Student Unification Program have worked diligently to bring the school together over fun and laughter. They sponsored the first annual pie eating contest at the pep rally, hosted a welcome dance for the freshman, made green milkshakes in honor of St. Patrick's Day, and created a March Madness bracket tournament. Below, some Junior SUP members break from their sponsered breakfast to take a picture.

–Courtney Green '11

(Co-President of GCC)

The new Global Connections Club's goal is to establish lasting national and international connections in order to enrich the community with new cultures and perspectives, broaden the worlds' view of our own community memebers and to demonstrate a commitment to our global community through fundraising for internetional NGO's. Since the GCC began, they have made Mondays at WHS a bit more engaging with their "Political Monday" announcements with weekly world news updates. A major accomplishment this year was the colection of over 500 signatures that were sent out to our state representatives to show support for diplomatic intervention in the Sundanese referendum as well as having speaker, news reporter and author Gail Lemmon speak about her new book, The Dressmaker of Khair Khana and her experiences in Afganistan under strick Taliban rule.

GLOW stands for Gay, Lesbian Or Whatever. They preach acceptance and tolerance, and act as a support system for students. This year, they have held numerous meetings and hosted the successful "GLOW Coffeehouse," where many different student groups, including the improv troupe and various student bands performed.

"GLOW is aimed to create an afterschool environment where people of all sexualities and genders feel comfortable being themselves and expressing their opinions. I love GLOW because I know that my opinions are always respected and welcomed by everyone else in the group. I hope that by being an active member of GLOW that other members of the WHS community can better understand the importance of accepting everyone regardless of their sexualities, and can see the importance of learning from their peers." -Anna Morisson '12

Caroline Joyce spends time in Ecuador through the program Amigos de Las Américas

Joyce lived in Cobos Grande, Ecuador through the non-profit, non-governmental organization that trains and sends youth from the US to Latin America where they live and work in rural communities. Sustainable development, youth leadership and community organization are all facets of the Amigos experience.

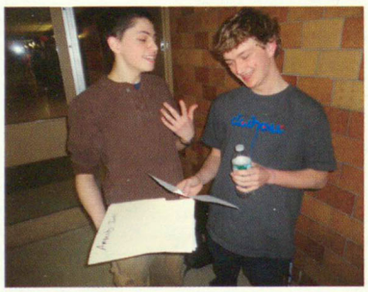

"We can camps five days a week for the local children that focused on environmental health. Additionally, we fathered the local parents and had them write a grant so that we could fix up the kitchen in our elementary school so that the children would not have to go home for lunch. We also worked with our partner agency Grupo Social Fepp, a local Ecuadorian non-profit development"

Be Spontaneous

Improv Troupe never fails to dazzle its various audiences.

Every Wednesday, the 15 members of Robot and the Ready-Readies meet after school to practice their improv. This year, the troupe is led by senior Presidents Nate Cheek and Noam Waksman. Waksman is also President and founder of the Improv Club, where both members and non-members of Robots and the Ready-Readies can practice and improve. Cheek is also president of Improv Club, along with Madi Gordon ('11). Waksman comments that his favorite part of improv is "both watching and playing in the games and laughing along with everybody in the room at all the hilarious situations that arise in each scene. It's a rush to get on the stage and perform in front of an audience when you don't know yet what you are going to say or do. It is just a lot of fun for me to play the games and form friendships with the members of the troupe and the club." Cheek added, "for each performance my goal is just to make the other members of the troupe and the audience laugh. Jokes can be simple or elaborate, creative or silly, brilliant or slapstick—whatever--as long as they're funny, we've done our job!"

Throughout January, performing arts students gathered every weekday from 3-6pm to rehearse this year's Winter Play, "The Shadow Box". The play centered around three terminally ill cancer patients and their relationship with their families in their final days. The cast's hard work culminated into six shows, two of which were performed by the understudy cast. The cast also showcased their performance at the Massachusetts Educational Theater Group Drama Festival. The cast decided to forgo the competitive focus this year and focused on becoming better performers without the underlying stressor of competition. This decision afforded the performers additional time to rehearse this year's spring play. Senior N. Waksman comments, "I enjoyed the challenge of playing a character facing death and I think the cast improved dramatically as actors through the process."

The Choral Department is made up of six choral groups that practice during school with Dr. McDonald and pianist Chad Wierick: Song Sisters, an all female choral group, Brooks Brothers, an all male choral group, Concert Choir, a co-ed group, the two select ensembles: Rice Street, the jazz group, and Keynotes, the classical group, and Madrigolds (not featured below). The students in these groups attend classes various times a cycle and practice a great variety of fun and traditional songs. These groups perform at many events including the winter concert, the step-up concert in early February, and the spring concert toward the end of the school year. In addition to these in-school chorus groups, there are three student-run A Cappella gorups: Ladies First A Cappella, A Cappella Anonymous, and Renegade A Cappella. Ladies First is the only all female student-run A Cappella group, led by seniors Casey Accardi and Missy Matteis. A Cappella Anonymous is the second student-run A Cappella group, led by seniors Ellie Mears and Alyssa Dillon, and sophomore Conor Chinitz. Lastly, Renegade A Cappella, the third student-run A Cappella group at the high school, is led by senior Dan Kopin, junior Julia Rufo, and sophomore Torie Davids. All of these groups are filled with diversely talented students and never fail to move the crowd to joy with their performances!

BE MUSICAL

From a simple prelude to the more complicated sonata, there are a wide variety of musical options to engage musicians at WHS. To be in an instrumental group "you need to be prepared to practice," said Peter Garland ('14). "You need a love of music and have a willingness to learn and improve on your instrument," offered K. Ceder.

This year, thirty eight students made Senior districts, where they were able to perform in the music festival along with the best musicians from all of the Eastern District Schools! This is quite an accomplishment and statement to our community about the wonderfully dedicated, creative and talented students at WHS and the outstanding musical leadership provided by Mr. Scott.

Dearest Andre-dre,
I made sure there are pictures from when we lived in Philly and from when you were little and cute so that people know we're telling the truth when we say we used to live in Philly and you used to be cute. Happy graduation! Enjoy your travels! ~~We'll miss you.~~

Be Remembered....

"Amid the chaos, stress and excitement of school we often forget to slow down and breathe.

It becomes second nature to allow ourselves to be consumed by grades, anxiety, and our own self-images.

It is all too easy to mirror those around us and forget to be ourselves. Reflecting upon this year we want to encourage everyone to take a deep breath and

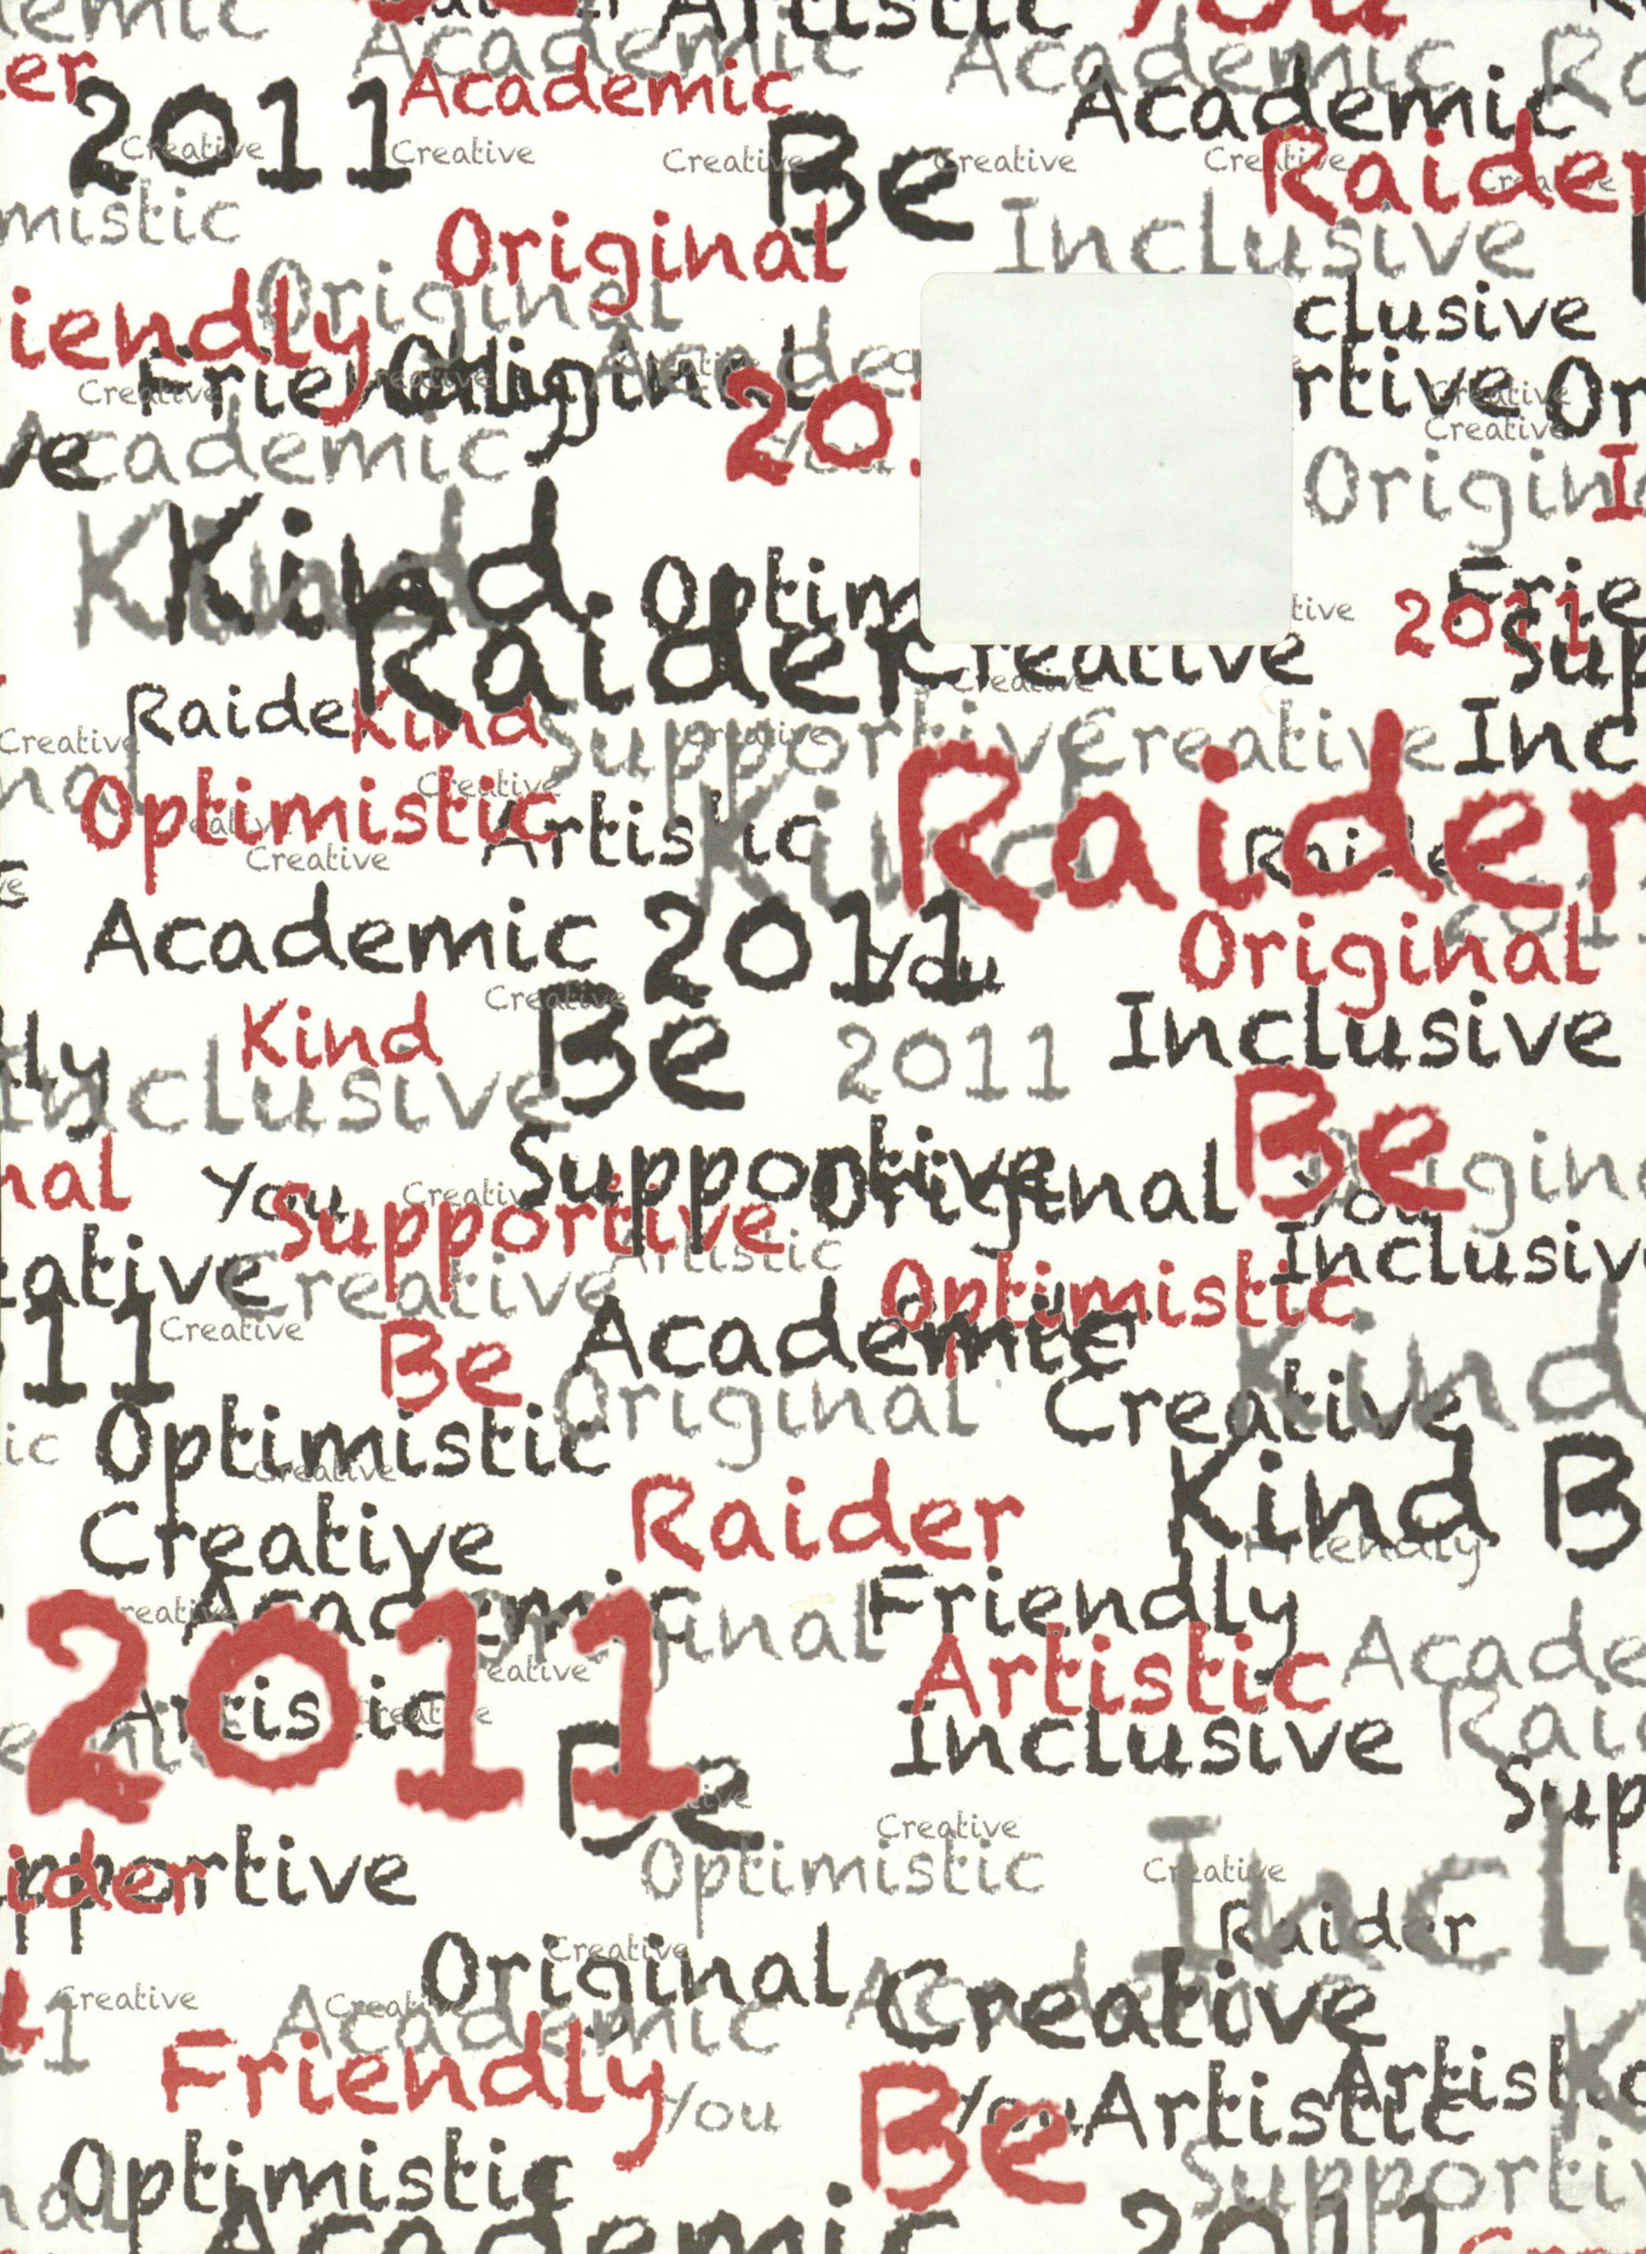

Just Be

When we reach within and gain the confidence to be ourselves, we can truly find peace and acceptance."
